The King rode proudly on his hand made float, decorated in Carnival colors and the float was pulled by his trustworthy knights, Jesse and Walter Yarborough; The King, Rod Villere, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Villere, was beautifully attired in a pink satin suit. The plume on his hat completed the costume.

SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS CITED

Social Security beneficiaries in Harrison, Hancock and Jackson Counties are receiving $725,000 per month in Social Security benefits, according to Jerome Drane, district manager of the Gulfport Social Security office. He also pointed out there are many people within this three-county area who have not applied for Social Security benefits due them.

This group includes individuals who have reached retirement age but who are still working. Evidently, these people have not heard of the recent changes to the social security act, which permits them to collect some checks even though they earn over $1,200 a year, he noted.

Many people are holding on to the idea that no benefits may be paid if they earn over $1,200, Drane said. This is no longer true, Drane noted, stating that in many cases partial benefits may be paid even though yearly earnings exceed well over $1,200. For example, a person whose Social Security monthly check is $100 a month can earn $1,800 a year and still receive $350 in social security benefits for the year, he said.

Drane suggested that all individuals over 65, even though earning over $1,200 a year, contact or call the Gulfport Social Security office. The office is open five days each week, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

University Mississippi Expanding Summer Scholarship Program

UNIVERSITY, Miss.—The University of Mississippi is greatly expanding its Summer Session scholarship program for high school seniors entering freshman and second year students for the summer session.

This year Ole Miss will award $100 scholarships to 100 outstanding 1962 high school graduates for participation in a unique program which allows an exceptional student to take full first-year course work in English and four other academic areas during the summer session.

As last summer, one group of 25 participants will combine studies in English and chemistry. For the first time this year other groups of like size will take English and journalism, English and Mathematics and English and Political Science.

Emphasis in the English sections will be on composition tailored to the needs of the chemist, the journalist, the mathematician or the political scientist", said Dr. Hay.

All courses carry normal University credit and the scholarship program is an integral part of the 1962 Summer Session, which begins June 8 and continues through Aug. 17, it was pointed out.

Scholarship application forms may be obtained by writing to: Dr. Franklin E. Moak, Director of Financial Aids, The University of Mississippi, University, Miss. Applications must be postmarked on or before March 19.

Participants will be chosen on the basis of academic excellence, evidence of strong motivation in intellectual activity and on the recommendation of principals and teachers, Dr. Hay said. Scholarships are not limited to Mississippi students.

REDUCING TRAFFIC FATALITY RECORD IS LARGE ORDER

The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol's goal of reducing 1961's traffic fatality record by 100 lives in 1962 is a large order. A vigorous enforcement program is the principal means by which this aim will be reached. According to Commissioner of Public Safety T. B. Birdsong, "We want the public's cooperation in our effort to reduce traffic fatalities. We must have their assistance or our efforts will be thwarted. Our men are out there to do a job. They are bound by their solemn oath to cite violations and enforce the traffic laws. It's not always easy, nor is it a pleasant job, but our men are duty-bound to help make the roads of our state safe for all drivers. Public cooperation, coordination with other enforcement agencies, and widespread help from the news media made our 1961 record possible. The same essential factors are necessary for the accomplishment of our 1962 goal."

"This is a personal appeal on behalf of the men of the Highway Safety Patrol and myself to every driver that uses our state's roads. At all times, while driving, keep your personal safety in mind. By doing this you will insure the safety of other drivers and help us make a reduction in traffic fatalities for 1962."

Miss Hospitality On Stage At Chicago

An audience of 14,000 in Chicago saw "Miss Hospitality" on the stage of that city's famous International Amphitheatre one recent Sunday afternoon.

After the band finished playing "Dixie," Miss Joanne Watts of Poplarville, told of Mississippi's many tourist attractions and invited all the listeners to make the "Hospitality State" their next vacation spot.

Her appearance was a highlight of the recent Chicago Travel Show in the historic stockyards building where the nation's major political parties choose their presidential candidates.

Dressed in a snow-white hoop-skirted gown of the South's antebellum era, Miss Watts graced the Agricultural and Industrial Board's brand-new travel exhibit featuring Mississippi vacation areas, handed out literature on the state's travel attractions, answered questions about Mississippi, posed for numerous photographs and signed autographs.

"The Mississippi booth at the Chicago travel show is always a standout," said Ned O'Brien, manager of the A&I Board travel department, "and our 'Miss Hospitality' is an eye-catcher every time. This year was no exception. The people of Chicago gave us a warm welcome."

An estimated 450,000 people attended the travel show in Chicago. Miss Watts also will represent the state at travel shows in Milwaukee March 17-25 and Los Angeles March 29-April 8.

TEST SHOWS TREES
INJECTION WORKS
WELL IN WINTER

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—Use of chemical injectors to control trees has become so widespread that forest owners need to rely on this type of work in winter as well as summer. John W. Starr, Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station forester, has recently completed a test which shows that injecting chemicals at the base of the tree is an efficient method of killing trees even in winter.

In fact, Mr. Starr says, there are advantages to be gained by doing the work in winter. During the dormant season the injector crews are able to move through the brush easier than during the growing season. The desirable times in need of release can be seen better. And the men themselves do not tire as easily during cool weather.

There are some disadvantages to tree injectors during winter. When the tree are dormant there is less biological activity within the tree itself; therefore, the herbicides do not move as well as

Town And Country
Garden Club Met

The Town and Country Garden Club met last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. John McNamara. The devotional, "Without God you can do nothing," was given by Mrs. McNamara.

Mesdames L. A. Sauer Jr., William Ford and Earl Gates were appointed as a nominating committee to present a slate of officers for election at the next meeting.

Mrs. S. K. Kepner distributed marigold and zinnia seeds to members and guests, and Mrs. A. J. Butz discussed spring planting and listed some of the flowers suitable to this climate and soil.

The group will celebrate their 10th anniversary at the March 20 meeting. Mesdames A. C. Mercier, C. Phelps and Emmanuel, new members, were introduced. Mrs. Phelps won the entrance prize.

A social hour followed the business session.

WSCS Met At Fellowship Hall

The Women's Society of Christian Service met Wednesday morning at the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. C. C. McDonald Sr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton, assisted by several members, presented the program on Latin America.

Following the meeting, luncheon was served with a menu typical of "South of the Border."

Place mats and napkins featured Latin America, and the table decorations consisted of art objects owned by Mrs. J. W. Clark who lived in Argentina for two years. Mrs. Clark briefly explained some of the articles.

An exhibit of pictures, articles and books showing scenes in various Latin American countries was also presented.

It is during the growing season. Due to this, the kill is slower. During severe cold weather the bark of the tree may be frozen and the job of throwing the injector into the tree would be difficult.

The complete report is published in the February issue of Mississippi Farm Research available on request from the Experiment Station at State College, Miss. It contains details of methods of application and amounts and kinds of chemicals used.

Mr. Starr says in 1960 alone 252,000 acres of the 600,000 acres of company-owned timber lands receiving chemical treatment in the Southern region were treated with the injector.

Waveland Hd Club Holds Meeting

Waveland Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward LaVasseur with Mrs. C. Phelps as co-hostess.

The roll call was answered with "My favorite dessert."

Mrs. Phelps read an article comparing colleges in Russia with those of the United States.

The club voted to make a donation to the heart fund, and plans were discussed to raise funds for the cancer drive.

Mrs. A. J. Butz reported on the council meeting. Plans for the flower and vegetable show in May and the dress review in April were discussed.

Mrs. Marcia Hughes, home agent, gave a demonstration on glove making.

The meeting closed with the thought, "Say the kindest things in the kindest way."

"GO FOR BROKE" IN 1962 TRAFFIC FATALITY REDUCTION

The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol's stated intent is to "go for broke" in 1962 in traffic fatality reduction. Public Safety Commissioner T. B. Birdsong announced earlier this year that the Patrol's aim in 1962 was the saving of 100 lives over the fine record set in 1961. To help achieve this goal the Patrol has requested that the number of Patrolmen be increased—the first increase requested since 1950.

In that period of time Mississippi's number of licensed drivers has increased by 75%, the number of registered vehicles has increased by 62% and the number of paved roads patrolled by the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol has increased by 25%. During the same period the death rate has actually gone down. This indicates that each Patrolman has become more effective and that the Patrol has been more efficient each year. Public awareness of the rewards of safe driving and cooperation with the news media and other traffic enforcement agencies has also contributed materially to this record. But the point of diminishing returns has almost been reached. An expansion of the Patrol's functions will help greatly to alleviate the increasing pressure of traffic on our state's roads.

Airplane In Agricultural Work

Mississippi holds the distinction of having pioneered the use of the airplane in agricultural work and has contributed to the phrase of agriculture throughout the world. The largest concentration of agricultural aircraft in the nation is in Mississippi. Delta today, which already has a fleet of 100 aircraft, manufactures aircraft for various pieces of agricultural equipment, particularly building a frame unit for agricultural spray and dusting aircraft.

Nitrogen Spray Not Practical on Cotton Leaves

State College, Miss.—Fertilizing cotton plants by spraying nitrogen on the leaves has not proved practical in several years of research by the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station.

The possibility of adding some form of nitrogen to sprays used to kill cotton insects was explored. This combination would save labor. However, the total volume of spray used for insect control is too small to carry enough nitrogen to correct deficiency. Burning of leaves and corrosion of equipment add to the difficulty.

Approximately 12 attended.

Each worker is requested to bring a sack lunch, including enough lunch for each preschool child brought by each worker. Drinks will be furnished by the host Church. A Nursery will be provided for all preschool children. The clinic will adjourn at 2:30 p.m. o'clock.

Historic Film Due Saturday at Legion Theatre, Gulfport

One of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's greatest pictures for 1962 is the film version, in CinemaScope and color, of the famous Vicente Blasquez novel, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," brought to the screen with a notable all-star cast, filmed largely on location in Paris and the magnificent French chateau country, and directed by the brilliant Academy Award winner Vincente Minnelli.

More than three years of preparation were devoted to this classic drama which is at once a passionate love story, the story of a family torn asunder by divided loyalties, the spectacle of Paris invaded by the Nazis during World War II, and the suspenseful drama of a rich and reckless scion who devotes his life to pleasure until he is caught up in the realities of a tremendous conflict.

Playing leading roles in the large cast are Glenn Ford, Ingrid Thulin, the celebrated Swedish star in her first Hollywood film; Charles Boyer, Lee J. Cobb, Paul Henreid, Paul Lukas, Yvette Mimieux and Karl Boehm, young Austrian star also making his American film debut. The picture's panoramic scenes also called for hundreds of bit players and extras.

The story revolves about two related families, the Desnoyers and Von Hartrots, who are first introduced at a family reunion taking place at the ancestral estate in Argentina, ruled by the patriarch Madariaga (Lee J. Cobb).

It is here that the tension between the families breaks out when the Von Hartrots reveal themselves to be fanatic supporters of Hitler, with the bitter disillusion bringing about an emotional strain which causes the death of the 80-year-old patriarch.

Following his death, the Von Hartrots return to Germany, the Desnoyers to France and, in 1939, when Paris becomes an Occupied City, Karl von Hartrott (Paul Lukas) and his sons are high in the Nazi command, with Heinrich (Karl Boehm) an undisputed leader.

The handsome Julio Desnoyers (Glenn Ford), living a life of pleasure in Paris, is seemingly oblivious to the war, in striking contrast to his young sister, Chi-Chi (Yvette Mimieux) who becomes an ardent French patriot. But then a series of events occur which has its repercussions on every member of the two families, as well as the two outsiders, the French journalist Etienne Laurier (Paul Henreid) and his beautiful young wife, Marguerite (Ingrid Thulin).

Mesdames Martha Ridings and Prather Slay were guests of the group.

Sheep Field Day Held

Sheep field day was held Wednesday morning at the Oliver Cuevas farm in Nicasia Crossing Community under the supervision of R. O. Buckley, extension animal husbandryman from Mississippi State University, assisted by County Agent O. O. Swords.

Mr. Buckley discussed breeding, feeding and management of sheep. He particularly stressed winter grazing for the production of spring lambs and stated parasite control is a must in sheep production.

Approximately 12 attended.

Agronomist Fred Jones, who conducted the tests, states the following conclusions:

"In contrast to soil application, foliar feeding of nitrogen to cotton during the fruiting period does not appear to be practical, even though moderate nitrogen deficiency may be corrected by spraying frequently with dilute ammonium solutions, particularly urea."

"But urea should not be applied to the foliage just as insurance against nitrogen deficiency. If additional nitrogen is not needed, the foliar spray may reduce yields."

"Solutions containing ammonium nitrate are unsatisfactory for foliar application to cotton. Even at low concentration, they burn the leaves and the nitrogen is not utilized efficiently."

"Boric acid, in amounts commonly found in fertilizer grade urea, was not toxic to cotton when added to the urea solution (3%)."

Aviation in State Makes Big Strides

Aviation in Mississippi has soared far aloft during the past quarter century. There are now 50 public airports listed for Mississippi, with scheduled major airline service being afforded fourteen of these fields. There are between 1,400 and 1,500 registered aircraft in the state, more than double the aircraft known in 1952, and far beyond any figures officially compiled 20 years ago. There are over 200 operators of aircraft services from one man to fairly large staffed firms.
